Thank you for making us your entertainment destination. I invite you to fully experience the Performing Arts Center at Kent State Tuscarawas... where Extraordinary Moments lead to Life-long Memories.

I believe that every moment of every show has the power to transport, inspire, and touch the soul. In those moments, when we come together as a community, we fully embrace the transformative power of the arts. The magic of a live performance is that the Extraordinary happens right in front of your eyes. Each moment is memorably unique, and only occurs for those gathered to share that experience, never to be replicated again. However, those moments will always be shared by those of us who experience it live and will remain in our memories forever.

The following pages of this brochure will guide your discovery of the 23/24 Season, a season full of once-in-a-lifetime moments that you, your family, and your friends will cherish together, forever. We hope you join us for several live performances this season and witness those Extraordinary Moments that create Life-long Memories.

The Performing Arts Center's educational programs give local students the opportunity to perform side by side with internationally recognized musicians for once-in-a-lifetime experiences on our stage. We are honored to continue this artistic journey in collaboration with the Performing Arts Center and alongside each and every one of you, our cherished patrons.

Clare Cannizzaro, executive director
Tuscarawas Philharmonic Orchestra

An orchestra is a collection of talented musicians; a charismatic conductor who brings life to the music; and numerous other individuals behind the scenes with a passion for sharing the beauty, emotion and pure musical magic that a live performance can bring. The magic, however, goes far beyond the stage. It includes YOU, a vibrant community brought together by a shared love for music. As patrons of the Philharmonic and the Performing Arts Center, you are an integral part of this community, and we are deeply grateful for your unwavering support. Your presence at our concerts, your applause, and your enthusiasm fuel our passion and inspire us to reach new heights of artistry.

Together, let us celebrate the power of music. Together, let us embrace shared experiences in this breathtaking space. Together, let us see beyond the challenges of the everyday and into a realm of beauty, introspection, and unity.

Together.

GOOD SHOT JUDY

Harkening back to those formative decades from the 1930s on, when small jazz combos, big brass bands and the crooners who sang on top of them were forging an enduring style and repertoire that would be written into the DNA of American music. Keen to give the classic melodies the respect and attention – as well as the power – that it deserved, the band includes a full complement of horns, percussion and vocals. A Good Shot Judy show offers all those tunes you know just from growing up in America – songs you can at least hum along to, if you don't outright know most of the words. But the music itself is only part of the band's allure; there's something electric in the execution, and it's that vigor that carries the day as much as the pull of recognition.

Garrison Keillor Tonight

An evening of stand-up, storytelling, audience song, and poetry. One man, one microphone. There are sung sonnets, limericks and musical jokes, and the thread that runs through it is the beauty of growing old. There is the News from Lake Wobegon, a town booming with new entrepreneurs, makers of artisanal firewood and gourmet meatloaf, breeders of composting worms, and dogs trained to do childcare. But some things endure, such as the formation of the Living Flag on Main Street, citizens in tight formation wearing red, white or blue caps, and Mr. Keillor among them, standing close to old neighbors, Myrtle Krebsbach and Julie Christensen and Clint Bunsen. And an a cappella sing-along with the audience singing from memory an odd medley of patriotic songs, pop standards, hymns, and ending with the national anthem.
